Foreword

By the Publisher

Genealogy books are the combined effort of many people, but there has to be one person who has the research instinct, the ability to organize facts, and the patience and persistance to keep at it before something worthwhile can be accomplished. In this case it was General Karl Truesdell who had these qualities and who compiled most of the information in this book. He worked on it from 1935 to 1952.

In 1951 Theodore M. Trousdale, Jr., became interested in the subject, and worked on it intermittently until 1960. His five years in the Navy (1951-1956) were both a hindrance and a help in this work. In 1954 he had the good fortune to meet the General in Washington and borrowed his typed copy of the book in order to make a copy for himself. This was his basis for enlarging it and carrying it beyond 1952.

Theodore M. Trousdale, Jr., has probably met more branches of the Trousdale family than anyone in the country. After obtaining a copy of the General's book he often carried it with him on his extensive travels, and made it a point to look up all the Trousdales on his route and obtain first hand all the data he could.

The Editor and Publisher have each spent 27 years of part-time, intermittent work in tracing ancestors and obtaining information from relatives and others. Countless other Trousdales have worked on their ancestry to establish their eligibility to join the DAR or the SAR. The information thus obtained was turned over to the General. If it were possible to consolidate all the efforts of all the people who contributed data for this book it would probably represent the full time efforts of one person for 100 years.

As the book in its present form was to be written from the material in T. M. Trousdale's typed copy of a typed manuscript prepared by General Truesdell, it was thought necessary in the interest of accuracy to first check every date, name, and place with all available information. This the Editor did. Every name in the book (2,975 of them) has been checked with the index; words and towns with doubtful spelling were looked up in the dictionary and atlas. Dates were checked from the standpoint of reasonableness; this process revealed the unusual accuracy of the General's original book and the retyping thereof by T. M. Trousdale, Jr. (One date turned out to be unreasonable: a woman started raising a family at the age of 2.)

After the Editor had done this checking she typed and proof-read the material The work was done on an electric typewriter using DupliMAT stencils, which were run off on a Multilith press.

Additional vital statistics through the eighth generation will be welcomed by the Publisher. In case a second edition is printed, it may be possible to include such information.

The General's records have all been placed in the DAR library in Washington, where anyone who is interested may examine them.

It should be noted that General Truesdell in his original manuscript did not include the photograph of himself or the summary of his biography, or any other photographs or special articles. These were added by the Editor.

Paragraphs with the suffix A, B, C, D, or E indicate additional material which was mostly provided by T.M.T., Jr.

F O R E W O R D

By General Karl Truesdell

This genealogy completes the trilogy on the descendants of Pre-Revolutionary immigrants from northern Ireland. The first, John Truesdel of South Carolina, is the key because through it was established the historic connective of the traditional demobilized Cromwellian soldier who settled first near Drogheda in 1649 and whose descendants moved into County Down. In that manuscript, based on parish records, early letters, and direct correspondence with living descendants now in Northern Ireland, the family has been authentically placed on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean. See Appendix A.

The second manuscript, John Truesdale of Cumberland Co, Pa, deals with another immigrant family, strong in County Down tradition but with no documentation to fix its exact place of origin. Another purpose of the second manuscript is to differentiate and to separate, in central Pennsylvania, reference to this John and his family which settled in Cumberland Co, west of the Susquehanna River, from the like named family which had earlier stopped in Lancaster Co, east of the river, and then moved on to North Carolina. See Appendix B.

This, the third manuscript, undertakes to reconstruct and develop the family of John Trousdale of Orange Co, NC, who also, allegedly, came from the same part of Ireland. No family records exist to prove a connective with the other two families - tradition is the only link. The first two generations of the Trousdale family are, genealogically, rather obscure. They are, in this text, doubtfully reestablished based on all known, acceptable data. Much confusion exists. The official North Carolina records are incomplete. The pioneer families of the second and third generation resettled in Tennessee where the earliest census is that of 1820. For three decades there is no check on the separate family groups. The family records of the period, without exception, are from memory, conflicting and not reliable. The author has been most embarrassed by the many conflicting claims. He is not a descendant, not a member of the family and, therefore, has no personal interest to achieve.

The framework of the text is based on recorded data, inadequate though it may be. The gaps have been bridged by circumstantial evidence, admissable if correctly applied and logically interpreted. Contrary views are presented, fairly it is hoped; presumptions and assumptions are always so stated. Despite extended search and trained evaluation, omissions and erroneous deductions exist. Anyhow, an honest attempt at a solution is herein offered.

Due to this chaos of misinformation, completion of this particular manuscript was delayed for many years - the initially assumed structure was not in balance, the family groups would not fit, the product could not be accepted by a trained genealogist. However, after an intensive search, considerable additional information was developed in the Orange Co (NC) Court records, in the Census 1820 of the counties of Tennessee and in the Court Minutes of those counties. Casting aside the earlier surmises, a fresh beginning was made based solely on original references and provable facts. In this manner families were brought into their proper relationship, a definite pattern was established. The text as now presented differentiates between the known and those presumptions resting on conjecture and wishful thinking.

Assisting in the foregoing have been a host of willing, kindly descendants all of whom have contributed their particular statistical part in the family history. These individuals are listed under References, are quoted freely, and their collaboration, together with the help of many others, is gratefully acknowledged. The compilation would have been futile without their assistance.

Certain general comments regarding this outstanding family are appropriate. The origin of the Trousdale family is English, specifically Anglo-Saxon (Truesdell Genealogy, publication pending) with a recorded history beginning at the opening of the 14th Century. The demobilized Cromwellian soldier from Lincolnshire and his settlement in northern Ireland conforms to tradition (Ms John Truesdel of South Carolina). His descendants may have married natives of Ireland or into Scotch families which overran that part of Ireland after its conquest. All were dissenters, non-conformists - anti-Angelican; later, Presbyterian. Initially, for Parliament and against the Stuarts, the descendants became Orangemen or Williamites. With such a background the immigrant family was politically well-prepared to become pioneers in the American way of life and to espouse the cause of the Revolution as patriots. In this connection it is important to know that not only did John Trousdale, the elder, render aid and assistance in the War, but similarly all of his sons have recorded services in that War. Consequently, all proven blood descendants in this text, if otherwise acceptable, are eligible to membership in the SAR or the DAR.

This text divides, naturally, into an historic study embracing the first several chapters and then turns into a straight concise genealogy of assembled vital statistics. The former, for clarity and smoothness, needs re-editing and re-typing but the author has neither the time nor capacity (eyes?) for such an undertaking. The latter, or genealogy part, is purposely brief, makes full use of abbreviations, is staccato in style.

There is no intention at this time to publish the manuscript. Two copies will be placed in selected libraries, the material being available for reference. However, there is no objection to its reproduction, wholly or in part.

Theodore McKee Trousdale jr

Some people like to travel, and Theodore M Trousdale jr is one of them, whether it be by car, rail, ship, or airplane. He started riding the rails alone to visit relatives when he was so young that other boys of similar age would have had a baggage tag on them, but not Ted.

He has traveled some 125,000 miles to date. As for the United States, he has visited in Boston, Mass; Miami, Fla; Trousdale, Okla; San Diego, Calif; Hawaii; Salem, Ore; Chicago, Ill and hundreds of cities and towns in between. He has crossed the United States from north to south and from east to west many times.

Outside the United States he has been in Mexico, Japan, Korea, the Philippines, Iwo Jima, Hong Kong, Bangkok, Saigon, Rangoon, Karachi, Beirut, Rome, Paris, London, and Shannon, Ireland. Some of these places he has visited several times.

During most of this travel he hunted for Trousdales, found many by referring to telephone directories, and many others by looking in his copy of the General's book.

Ted inherited from his father a great facility for remembering dates, places, names, and events; like the General, he has the peculiar ability to keep straight all the jig-saw pieces of a genealogy pattern.

Earliest Generation

WILLIAM TROUSDALE (also: del, deal). Antecedents, wife - unknown. William's relation to John Trousdale, see hereafter, who concurrently lived in Lancaster Co, Pa and later moved to Orange Co, NC or to John Truesdale who settled in Cumberland Co, Pa about 1771, is purely conjectural. Identical family names, the time and place of settlement, the grants of land, early taxation, all point to a common source of origin and a degree of kinship.

It is very probable that this William and the John who moved to Orange Co, NC were brothers. This hypothesis can be taken ad hoc for study and expansion.

William Trousdale received a land warrant, 100 acres in Lancaster Co, after 1733 and before survey 21 Aug 1765 (Pa Arch 3d S XXIV 548). He was taxed "for the King's use" in West End of Hanover (twn), Lancaster Co in 1756, 1757, and 1759 (Notes & Queries Engle I 351; II 120 & 210), other years not reported.

William Trousdale sr and his family apparently remained in Lancaster Co but the name does not appear therein after the third generation, see below. He, himself, was living in 1779 when William "junior" was granted land (Pa Arch 3d S XVII 625) and the relationship of the three sons, as brothers, is in the will of William jr in 1785 (Dauphin Co Wills A 9), by which year the father had undoubtedly passed on. Children included:

i John, living 1785. Freeman of West Hannover (twn), Lancaster Co and taxed on 130 acres in 1772 (Pa Arch 3d S XVII 257), on 100 acres in 1773 (idem 407). He may be the John who married on 25 Aug 1774 by Parson Elder of Paxtang, the bride's name being omitted (Notes & Queries I 162). In the Revolution he was pvt in Capt James Roger's Co of Col Timothy Green's Hanover Rifle Bn in camp in the Jerseys on 6 Jun 1776 (Pa Arch 5th S VII 1050). He subscribed allegiance to Pennsylvania at Hanover (twn), Lancaster Co on 28 Sep 1777 (Notes & Queries I 233). Inasmuch as his name does not appear on later militia rolls he may have enlisted in the Continental forces. He is last mentioned in his brother William's will of 1785.

ii William jr, d Dauphin Co, Pa bet 30 Mch & 13 May 1785; m Lancaster Co, Pa (by Parson Elder of Paxtang) 21 Jun 1781 - Elizabeth Glen (op cit I 164). He lived and was taxed in West Hanover (twn), Lancaster Co, Pa as early as 1771/2 (Pa Arch 3d S XVII 148); taxed as "junior" on 110 acres in Hanover (twn) in 1779 (op cit XVII 625); took oath of allegiance on 1 Mch 1779 (Notes & Queries I 234); served as pvt 5th cl at Lebanon, Pa under Lieut James Johnston (6th Co 6th Bn Lancaster Co militia) in 1778/9 (Pa Arch 5th S VII 557); was on the militia rolls of Lancaster Co 1780 to 1782 (op cit VII 913, 939 & 959); and in 1784, as pvt 2d cl, was exempted from marching "against the insurgents" (idem 6th S V 278). His will, signed 30 Mch 1785 and probated 13 May 1785 (Dauphin Co Wills A 9. This was the year Dauphin was formed from Lancaster. KT), mentions by name his wife, two daughters, and brothers Thomas and John. Selling land in Cumberland Co, livestock and chattels, Elizabeth and each daughter were to receive one third. Elizabeth also was to have back the "mare that she brought with her on marriage" confirming the recent year of her marriage and the youth of the daughters. His brothers were to have clothing and Thomas's eldest son, William, a saddle and bridle. Children (minors in 1785):
   -Jean
   -Hannah

iii Thomas, living 1795. Married and had issue. Freeman of West Hanover (twn), Lancaster Co, Pa in 1772 (Pa Arch 3d S XVII 258). It is improbable that he is the Thomas of Hopewell (twn), Cumberland Co, Pa, a landowner and taxed there from 1778 to 1782 as this one appears closely related to the Truesdales of that area. No citations found as to service in the Revolution. He was named in his brother's will of 1785. He is probably the pvt 1st cl Co 4th Bn Dauphin Co militia in 1786 (Pa Arch 6th S III 381) and again in 1794 (idem V 259). He lived in that part of Lancaster Co taken to form Dauphin in 1785. In Census 1790 the family comprised: Males, one over 16 and three under; females, three. Noted that in 1795 he subscribed in purchasing a mill dam on Paxton Creek (nr Harrisburg) (Hist Dauphin Co, Pa Rupp 239). Children included:
   - William. Mentioned in will of his uncle in 1785. Member 1st Co 4th Bn Dauphin Co militia in 1794 (Pa Arch 6th S V 260).
   - and others.

iv Margaret (poss), d 11 Sep 1836; m 17 Feb 1778 - John Brown, s James & Eleanor (Mordah) Brown, b Paxtang (twn), Lancaster (now Dauphin) Co, Pa 19 Sep 1752, d Cumberland Co, Pa 10 Jun 1842 (Hist Reg Pa Engle 1884 49). John Brown served in the Revolution. Children (op cit):
   - James, b 31 Dec 1778, d 11 Oct 1822; m - ____. Had: Eleanor, John, Eliza, Mary, James.
   - John jr, b 25 Mch 1780, d 1865; m - ____. Had: James, Nathaniel.
   - Jane, b 26 Mch 1782, d 5 Nov 1858; m 4 Apr 1809 - John Scouller. Had issue.
   - William, b 31 May 1784, d Batavia, O; m - ____. Had son & dau.

JOHN TROUSDALE, parentage unknown, b Ulster Province, (now Northern) Ireland c 1704, d Orange (now Alamance) Co, NC bet 1779 & 1784; m Ireland or Pennsylvania - Elizabeth ____, she living 1779. John Trousdale migrated to America bet 1730 & 1735 settling initially in Lancaster Co, Pa and then moved to Orange Co, NC. With variations the foregoing represents the consensus of family tradition. Except for John's will, no records exist.

The migration from Ireland conforms to the general exodus of the period when more than half of the Protestant population left to avoid over-population and dire famine conditions. The period is that of George II - no political strife, little religious persecution. By the time John arrived in Pennsylvania the good, cheap land east of the Susquehanna and south of the mountains had been occupied. The presumed brother, William, see above, is authentically identified in the area as a freeman, landowner, and taxpayer. John Trousdale, however, is not officially recorded as having lived in Lancaster Co. Elsewhere, two grandchildren state that they were born in Lancaster Co, Pa.

Attracted by the low cost speculative grants in the Carolinas John Trousdale apparently abandoned whatever living he had in Pennsylvania and moved southward following the 400 mile route via the Lower Trail or Trading Path by way of the Shenandoah and the Piedmont, a month's trip by wagon. Moving in company, religious congregations - Quakers, Moravians, Presbyterians, or political groups - German, Scotch-Irish, Jacobite, would settle in particular localities, community of interest prevailing. Squatting on likely homesites the families would later buy the land from the agent for the patent (Hist Alamance Co, NC Whittaker). John Trousdale, a Presbyterian, sought the Hawfields tract, a part of the original Granville patent, on the east bank of the Haw River between Swepsonville and Saxapahaw, Haw Creek a tributary of the Haw running along its south edge. Insofar as known John, the elder, did not himself acquire land in Orange Co although his two younger sons did become extensive landowners on both banks of the Haw and his eldest son lived on the west side (Alamance Co, NC S W Stockard). Other settlers at the time, to mention a few names included in subsequent marriages, were the Freelands, Stockards, Clendennins.

On arrival in Orange Co, John Trousdale was well along in years. His sons who accompanied him were married and had families of their own. John, the elder, probably did not become personally involved in the Regulator troubles which were stirring the area at the time. The neighborhood, however, was committed to the insurrection against the Crown authorities. In the Revolutionary War, while too old to serve as a soldier, in Dec 1776 John Trousdale rendered assistance to the State military authorities and was paid therefor £ 10.1.8 (NC Rev Accounts VIII #697). The character of the service is not stated. Being a tailor it might have been for uniforms, a necessity at this time in the Revolution.

Last of authentic records pertaining to John, the elder, is his Will* signed with his mark, 3 Aug 1779. Stating that he was a tailor (taylor) and "weak in body", he mentions no land or home, but only goods and chattels which he devises to his wife Elizabeth "during her natural life, and at her death to be divided as follows among my children:" in substance to:

my son William, to receive £ 3 more than a child's part my son John, to receive certain clothing more than a child's part my son James, to receive a child's part my daughter Margaret, to receive a child's part my daughter Mary, to receive one shilling.

On the same day in a codicil but with different witnesses he gave "to his beloved son James" the House Bible. William and John had been named as (*) Some attribute this Will to be that of John Trousdale jr. The son, raised in the wilds of a new country, would not be a "tailor". While possible it is doubtful that he would have two sons of legal age to administer the estate. The land records indicate that John jr was an active planter and miller dying in 1797. This does not comport with the traditional birth of John the elder in 1704. Consequently, the Compiler can not concur in this assumption.

executors, but on the face of the Will is the notation: "Wm refused; John qualified". The Will was offered and accomplished at the February Court in 1784 (Original in NC Archives).

The above Will is legally well drawn, the work of a qualified lawyer. From it certain deductions are proper. By naming his trade to be that of a tailor, a clue is given as to his early training in the homeland as a townsman in Ireland. With scant opportunity to practise this skill in America he was still proud of his accomplishment. It is also what is termed a death-bed instrument, John probably dying shortly thereafter. Not a property owner, John and Elizabeth probably lived with one of the sons - James, according to the special consideration mentioned in the codicil. "Child's part" is a legal term of equivalence and has nothing to do with age at the time, otherwise by primogeniture, then applicable, the eldest son was entitled to all realty and the greater part of the remainder. The terms of the Will prevent its ultimate division until Elizabeth's demise. Therefore, she is presumed to have died by 1784. Children in the order named in the Will:

(3) i William; m - ____.
(4) ii John jr, ____-1797; m - ____.
(5) iii James, 1736-1818; m 1st 1761 - Elizabeth Ferguson; m 2d 1775 - Elizabeth Dobbins.
iv Margaret, living 1779.
v Mary, living 1779. She may have been older than some of the others. Cut off with "one shilling", legally used to indicate disinheritance.

ALEXANDER TROUSDALE. No relationship claimed or proven. The name "Alex Trousdale, Capt", with no dates or explanation was found in a list of North Carolina Revolutionary War officers (NC Rev Accounts X 109-2). The youth of the two Alexanders in the following text eliminates them from consideration. Nowhere else in any official record is the name found. One or two family authors have used the name as a possible brother of Capt James and father to the Alexander who finally settled in White Co, Ill. No proof.

Judge Jo C. Guild, famous circuit judge of Sumner County and judge of the law court of Nashville, was said to be one of the most remarkable characters Gallatin ever had and was a contemporary of General Trousdale. He wrote a book "Old Times in Tennessee" (now out of print) which describes among other things his experiences with General Trousdale during the wars. In the book he says:*

"...During the administration of General Jackson, the secretary of war called for a brigade of volunteers from Tennessee to fight the Seminole Indians in Florida, who had made war upon the inhabitants of that state and of Georgia. William Trousdale, Jo C. Guild, and John Henry each raised a company in Sumner County.

"These volunteers, together with those from other counties, rendezvoused at Fayetteville in June, 1836. William Trousdale was elected Colonel; Jo C. Guild, Lieutenant-colonel; Capt. Joseph Meadows, first major; William Washington, second major of the Second regiment. They left the 4th of July for Columbus, Ga., which had been threatened by the Indians...."

He tells in detail of many of the soldiers dying of yellow fever, of the surrender of 2,000 of the Indians to General Jessup in 1837 and of 2,000 that surrendered to Gen. Zachary Taylor which were shipped west.

"After the battle of Talledega the army was reduced to great distress for lack of provisions, the soldiers being driven to the necessity of subsisting on acorns, and, in consequence, General Jackson was forced to remain inactive in camp from December until the March following. It was in this campaign that Lieutenant Trousdale performed the daring feat of swimming the Tennessee River on horseback at the Muscle Shoals. He had been entrusted with a mission which required him to cross the river. There was no boat at hand, neither could he swim, and he must either recoil from the danger or accept the perilous situation. He chose to perform his duty regardless of the great risk to himself it involved. 'Trusting to his faithful charger', as another has described the feat, 'and impelled by his daring spirit, with all his baggage he plunged into the stream. At one moment his horse was above water on a rock and the next moment he plunged into swimming water, and for nearly three miles the noble animal struggled on until he carried his rider safely to shore.'" (For further details of his life see paragraph 23.)

Comment: This Chapter is crucial. It presents, in a practical vacuum, the children of William and John jr, older brothers of Capt James. Of William's children only William jr and Nancy Freeland are certain, of John jr's only William and Nancy Ray. Their other children, all of whom existed and must be accounted for, are tentatively inserted according to circumstantial evidence: property transfers, grouped movement into Tennessee, comparisons as to births, the Census. The compiler is fully aware of this incompleteness and uncertainty and would welcome factual evidence, should any additional exist. As to the children of Capt James, these are fully documented and beyond question. KT

WILLIAM TROUSDALE, s John the elder & Elizabeth, b County Down, Ireland ante 1736, d Orange Co, NC aft 1805 & bef 1810; m - ___(unknown), prob living 1800 (Census). Being mentioned first in his father's will, William is presumed to be the eldest son and entitled to the largest share. Accompanying his parents from Pennsylvania he is specifically noted as a first settler on the west bank of the Haw River (Alamance Co, NC Stockard 11). He petitioned Gov Tyrone on 5 Dec 1768 in connection with the appointment of a justice of the peace (NC Rec VII 874). There is no record of his becoming a landowner although his home was about three miles west of that of Capt James (Nancy Freeland in 1852).

In the Regulator troubles the disastrous battle on 16 May 1771 took place a few miles from his home. He is not listed as a participant but he did refuse to take Tyrone's oath of allegiance following the rebellion (Alamance Co, NC Stockard 67). With John Trousdale, he petitioned Gov Martin, who had succeeded Tyrone, for clemency in the case of John Fruit, the outlawed Regulator leader (NC Rec IX 93/4). William has no record of actual service in the Revolution, however he supported the cause and sold to the State military authorities £ 432 of beef during or before Nov 1780 (NC Rev Accounts Comp Off B 264). As certified at Hillsboro, the State capital, the Auditor on 4 Apr 1781 recomputed the £ 432 at the ratio of 150 to 1 and paid William £ 2.16.3 plus interest (op cit #189). Between 1782 and 1783, William asked the State Assembly to exercise clemency in behalf of Thomas Eskridge then under death sentence for treason (NC Rec XIX 933). In 1784 William refused to act in the administration of his father's estate, no reasons being given. The tax list of 1790 does not include William's name as a land holder. In Census 1800, an enumeration of persons, William was living in Orange District, Orange Co, NC his family comprising males: one over 45, two 16/26; females: one over 45. Interpreted, this might be himself, wife and two unmarried sons. Nearby is the growing family of his son James. In 1803 a tract of land was deeded to his son, William "jr" and on 7 Jan 1805 "William Trousdale Sen'r of Orange Co" deeded to James Trousdale a negro boy named Sam for £ 100 (Orange Co Deeds XII 39). This is the last mention of William sr. Children:

(6) i James, 1753-1820; m 1787 - Sarah Elizabeth Faucett.
(7) ii John, 1756-1837; m - Elizabeth Jane Stockard (?).
(8) iii William jr, 17__-1833; m 1801 - Caty McCauley.
(9) iv (poss) Ellen; m - James Stockard.
v (poss) Mary; m Orange Co, NC (Marr Bond) 13 Mch 1798 - Samuel O'Daniel. Witnesses to this marriage were William Trousdale jr and John Taylor. The latter was also a witness to William's marriage in 1801.
(10) vi Nancy, 1769-185_; m - John Freeland.

JOHN TROUSDALE jr, s John & Elizabeth (___), b prob Lancaster Co, Pa in or bef 1736, d Orange Co, NC ante Nov 1797; m - ___(Unknown). Gladney states that John jr was the older twin with Capt James but offers no proof. He is mentioned as second son in his father's will of 1779 being given a larger share than Capt James. His marriage must have occurred in Pennsylvania, his wife probably being a Ferguson, maybe a sister of Capt James's first wife, judged from the consistent recurrence of the given names in the descendants.

It is assumed that John jr and his family accompanied the rest on their move from Pennsylvania to Orange Co, NC. He is the first Trousdale to buy land in North Carolina being deeded two acres, including a mill, on both sides of the Haw River by H E McCulloch (the Granville land agent) on 14 Nov 1768 (Orange Co Deeds II 84).

Whether John jr took part in the Regulator troubles is not of record. He did, however, with William, petition in behalf of John Fruit as previously stated. During the Revolutionary War John is not listed as a soldier but he did render assistance to the State military authorities: supplies and cash to the militia, £ 1.4.8. (NC Rev Accounts C 98 #3170), which with other items (not stated) totaled £ 4.16.8 were paid for by the Auditor on 10 Jan 1783 (op cit Voucher 2905).

Not recorded John jr had purchased "some considerable time past" from H E McCulloch 620 acres in the fork of the Haw River and the Great Alamance (Orange Co Deeds XI 142). This, together with the two acre mill site gave him 622 acres which agrees with the 1790 tax list (Col Rec NC XXVI 1286). In 1792 he bought a 60 acre tract east of the Haw, selling at a loss in 1797. John Ray, a witness, later proved the deed (op cit V 212 & V 219). Not recorded in North Carolina but in Tennessee (Davidson Co Land Rec 25 W 2104 Location 4344) John on 12 Jul 1790 was assignee of the heirs of John Gibson for 640 acres on the north side of the Cumberland River on Blooming Grove Creek. This tract lies in Montgomery Co on its western (Stewart Co) boundary. (Davidson Co was acting as office of record for Montgomery Co which had just been formed. KT.)

In 1795 John, referring to the 620 acre tract in the fork of the Great Alamance, stated that there were then living on it: himself, James Trousdale, and James Stockard. At that time he gave a quit claim thereon to the University of North Carolina reserving clear title to James Stockard. The deed was not recorded until 1803 (Orange Co Deeds XI 142). In 1793 John had bought 203 acres on Back Creek for £ 170 which either he or his estate disposed of in 1797 for £ 400 (op cit V 384 & VII 359). Finally on 17 Mch 1797 the two acre mill site, which John had owned and operated for 30 years, was disposed of (op cit XII 61). Here again John Ray was a witness but did not place the deed in Court until 1806.

By early 1797 all of John jr's Orange Co holdings were disposed of, possibly in anticipation of his approaching demise. The November Court of 1797 directed William Trousdale to inventory John's estate and on the following February granted approval of the "inventory of the estate of John Trousdale, dec'd, as returned by William Trousdale, admr". No details nor mention of the beneficiaries is given. (The Orange Co Estate Records do not begin until 1800. KT)

John Trousdale jr never settled on the Tennessee grant. Apparently, this was taken over by his several sons, Alexander having moved to Montgomery Co before his father's death and was followed later by William and John 3d. Children as reconstituted from the above records:

(11) i Alexander, 1766-1834; m 1st 1790 - Fannie Clendennin; m 2d - Edah Pearce.
(12) ii William; m - _____.
(13) iii John; m - _____.
(14) iv Nancy; m - John Ray.
v James, b bet 1755 & 1774, poss living 1820; m ante 1790 - ____. In 1795 John jr stated that James was living on the 620 acre tract. There is no positive evidence that James moved to Montgomery Co, Tenn although he might be included within the family of John 3d in Census 1820, see hereafter.

Origin of the Name

TROUSDALE, TROWSDALE, TRUESDALE, TROWSDALL* - Local, "of Troutsdale", a township in the parish of Brompton, near Scarborough, N. Rid. Yorks, England.

1635. Phines Trusedell (aged 18 years) embarked for the Barbadoes: Hotten's Lists of Emigrants, p. 142.

1679. Buried - Ann Trowsdale, St. Michael's Barbadoes: ibid. p 433.

Probably Phineas was the parent of the American Trowsdales, Trousdales, or Truesdales. The different forms are still chiefly found, so far as England is concerned, in the N. Rid. Yorks, in the neighbourhood of Troutsdale.

JAMES TROUSDALE, s John & Elizabeth (___), b Lancaster Co, Pa 1736, d Gallatin, Tenn 24 Dec 1818, bur ibid, ae 82 yrs (Allen; Pension Claim #4525); m 1st Lancaster Co, Pa 1761 - Elizabeth Ferguson, dau Alexander & Mary (Russell) Ferguson, d Orange Co, NC c 1774; m 2d Orange Co, NC 10 Mch 1775 - Elizabeth Dobbins, dau William Dobbins, b c 1753, d Gallatin, Tenn 1 Dec 1839, bur with hus (op cit).

James was the last mentioned son in his father's will and was to receive only the normal inheritance of a younger child. In the codicil, however, he is called "my beloved son" and is given the "House Bible". With his family he accompanied his parents from Pennsylvania to Orange Co, NC settling on the Haw River. It is believed that James was an unnamed member of the ill-fated rebels at the battle of the Alamance on 16 May 1771. B F Allen, who married a granddaughter of Capt James, writing of the latter's service during the Revolution, included this engagement with those of the War of the Revolution, Allen not realizing the historic significance. James Trousdale's first recorded grant of land was by the State, 200 acres on the waters of Haw Creek (south of Hawfields) 3 Sep 1779 (NC Land Grant XL 929). His home was about three miles east of that of his brother William (Pension Claim Affidavit Nancy Freeland).

In the Revolution, again quoting Allen, James Trousdale began his active military service as a captain of militia in 1779, was captured at Charleston, served with Marion, was severely wounded by a saber cut received from one of Tarleton's troopers at Guilford CH (15 Mch 1781) and finished the war with Cornwallis's surrender at Yorktown (19 Oct 1781) (Am Hist Mag VII 4). Allen's description is not wholly correct and it fails adequately to describe Capt James's extended service, part of it as a Continental.

Capt James Trousdale commanded successively at least three militia companies, all recruited no doubt in Orange Co. His first company arrived late in 1779 at Charleston for three months service expiring in March 1780. Isham Beesley, member of another company organized at the same time, states (Pension Claim) that Capt James's company was marched home and discharged shortly before Charleston was taken. (Lincoln surrendered to the British on 12 May 1780). An undated voucher for Capt James and his company, £ 55. 13.2, covers this service (NC Arch C 91 #2332). During the remainder of 1780 Capt James undoubtedly served "on call" with Marion, the Swamp Fox, most skilled of partisan fighters. There were no rolls or records for this character of service.

In February 1781 North Carolina formed two regiments of militia to serve for six weeks. They reported to Nathaniel Greene, General Washington's ablest field commander, at Guilford Ch. The North Carolina militia, their time almost expired, were placed in first line to oppose Cornwallis's seasoned regulars. Firing two rounds, the partially equipped militia disappeared pursuant, it is said, to orders similar to those issued at Cowpens whereby the selected battle line was uncovered. Voucher 648, 29 Jun 1781, in favor of Capt James for £ 751 covers this period of service. Following Greene's withdrawal from Guilford Ch the North Carolina Council Extraordinary, in a questionable manner, sentenced "all those who had fled from Guilford to 12 months service as Continentals" (Rev War Greene 239-243). On recovery from his wound Capt James was probably given command of one of those reformed "Continental" units. Confirmation is found in one of his indents to the State claiming, among other charges, pay for each of the members of his company for 344 days service (NC War Bk C 98). In Pension Claim are loose indents (Originals) for pay and for rations covering almost the entire period from 2 Sep 1781 to after 6 Sep 1783. Part of this service is concurrent with the "six months guarding the jail at Hillsboro"

(Hist Reg Off Heitman 549).

During 1782/3 Capt James recommended that clemency be granted to certain loyalists (Tories) (NC Rec XVI 277). In 1784 he applied for a grant in Tennessee Co, then under jurisdiction of North Carolina. This was to be paid for with his war script. On 10 Dec 1790 the grant was issued for 640 acres on the north side of the Cumberland River (NC Land Grant Off LXXIV 353). This tract is recorded in Davidson Co Rec bounded on the north and east by Tilman Dixon and south by Thomas Spencer, cost $10 per 100 acres. It lay within Sumner Co formed from Davidson in 1786.

In Orange Co, NC, Census 1790 (a tax list) shows James Trousdale as holding 200 acres in the Caswell District (Col Rec NC XXVI 1286) being the same as that granted him by the State in 1779. He sold this tract in 1794 to Daniel Torintain for £ 200 (Orange Co Deeds). Accompanied by most (but not all) of his family he moved to Tennessee in 1796 settling on his grant in Sumner Co. Covered with virgin forest, James cleared the land, cultivated the soil and built his home on the present site of Gallatin. In 1801 the Tennessee Legislature authorized the selection of a county seat for Sumner Co. The site so selected was "in the place of Capt James Trousdale, whereon he now lives, lying on the road that leads from Major David Wilson's to John Dawson's, taking in all 41.8 acres with one acre on the south side exempted upon which stood Capt Trousdale's home" (Hist Sumner Co, Tenn Cisco 28 & 30). In 1802/3 court sessions were held in that home, the house long since rebuilt.

Capt Trousdale's will was signed 2 Sep 1818 and proved in the following February court. Except for Jesse and Agnes, he mentioned all of his children below by name and also his sons-in-law by surname (Sumner Co Wills).

The widow, Elizabeth Dobbins, survived her husband. In 1820 she was living in Gallatin with Nancy and owned 6 slaves (Census). She was living with Bryson in Robertson Co in 1830 but probably returned to Gallatin before she died. Bryson administered her estate. Her children then (1839) living were: Robert, William, Catherine (Cowan), Bryson, Nancy. In 1851/2 Bryson processed a retroactive claim in behalf of his mother's estate, securing a pension of $210 per annum effective from 1832 (Pension Claim #4525).

The surnames of both of Capt James's wives as well as the marriage date of Elizabeth Dobbins is contained in affidavit of Gov William Trousdale. The stated parentage of each wife, see above, is according to Gladney and has not been checked.

CHAPTER THREE

Third Generation

Please reread Comment at head of preceding Chapter. During the interim all Trousdale families have left North Carolina settling in several of the counties of Tennessee; some have continued on to Illinois and Alabama. The earliest applicable census in Tennessee was taken in 1820, a 30 year gap since Census 1790 in North Carolina. Family records are still relatively non-existent.

JAMES TROUSDALE, presumed s William & ____, b 1753 (Funk), d Maury Co, Tenn early 1820; m Orange Co, NC (Marr Bonds) 30 Nov 1787 - Sarah Elizabeth Faucett (now spelled Fawcett), b Orange Co, NC, d nr Columbia, Tenn ante 1830. Direct evidence as to parentage of James is lacking. Circumstantially, he lived adjacent to or with William, the father, on the west side of the Haw; James Stockard, presumed brother-in-law, was bondsman to James's marriage and later sold him land; James Trousdale migrated to Tennessee settling in the same area with William jr and the Stockards; the only other James Trousdale of this period is separately placed. Initially the couple lived in Orange Co, NC where the eldest children were born. In 1797 James Stockard sold James Trousdale 113 acres on the west side of the Haw (Orange Co Deeds). In Census 1800 James, living in Orange District, Orange Co, NC, had a family comprising males: one 26/45, two under 10; females: one 26/45, one 10/16, two under 10. On 20 Oct 1807 James sold his 113 acres to Henry Albright for £ 500 (Orange Co Deeds) and moved the following year with his family to Maury Co, Tenn settling on a homestead eight miles south of Columbia (Ferrell). In 1809 he was on jury duty in the December Court and again in 1819 (Maury Co Ct Min). James's will, signed 6 Jun 1816, named all of the children below listed (Maury Co Prob). In Census 1820 Sarah "Trousal" is head of the family then consisting of males: three 16/26; females: one over 45, four under 16. She is not found in Census 1830. (note: Sarah Elizabeth Faucett was probably the daughter of William F Faucett who died in Orange Co, NC in 1785 (Wills). In 1790 William, her brother, lived in Chatham District, Orange Co having two white votes and 310 acres. KT)

* In James's will of 1816 he named the six daughters first followed by the three sons. Here the order is reversed based on the ages given in the Census.

JOHN TROUSDALE, s William & ____, b bet 1750 & 1760 (Census) or 1756 (Funk who cites no authority), d Smith Co, Tenn 11 Dec 1837 (Shepherd; McClain); m c 1780 (Funk) or 1785 (Kirkes) - Elizabeth (or Jane)____, see below. There are several conflicting assertions regarding this family group, both as to John's probable parentage and the name of his wife or wives.

Based on the period of John's birth it occurred prior to the move from Pennsylvania. His parentage is determined by the elimination of the other contemporaneous and slightly younger Johns, sons, respectively, of John jr and Capt James. The former, John 3d, after his father's death in 1797, moved to Montgomery Co, Tenn and is definitely recorded in that area for the succeeding several decades. The only other John Trousdale, son of Capt James, born in 1762, left Orange Co ahead of his father, married in Kentucky and later returned to Sumner Co, Tenn, joining his father.

John Trousdale, above, son of William, was among the last to migrate to Tennessee. In Orange Co there is no specific record that he was a property owner. His family may be included with that of his father William in Census 1800 (both Federal and State). With his family he moved to Smith Co, Tenn about 1804. This is confirmed by the earliest land deed in that county and the statement in 1884 of a 90 year old negro that he had been a slave in the family of John Trousdale and that he was about ten years old when the family came direct from North Carolina (recorded by Miss Burta Ferrell in 1944).

In Smith Co (formed from Sumner in 1794) John Trousdale settled on the north bank of the Cumberland River east of Caney Fork River. The "Trousdale Ferry" is mentioned in the earliest Court Minutes. John was on jury duty several times in 1809. His stock mark was two swallow forks, one on each ear. Throughout his name is recorded as "sr" or "sen'r" (Smith Co Ct Min). In the Shepherd Bible his name is followed by "Sgt" indicating previous unrecorded military service either in the Revolution or in one of the Indian expeditions.

John's eldest son, William, predeceased him, naming him as his father and, with John Harvey, an administrator. In Census 1820 John sr and his wife were living alone, had 8 slaves; the families of Polly (widow of William) and John jr living on adjoining plantations. In Census 1830, the elderly couple, both between 70 and 80, had 27 slaves.

John Trousdale sr's wife, the mother of his children, is another unsolved problem, both her given name and her family being in question. Funk and Kirkes say that her Christian name was "Elizabeth"; while the latter, based on correspondence in 1917 and now lost, adds that she "was Elizabeth Stockard, daughter of Jesse Stockard and Amelia Gordon of Chesterfield, Va". The reappearance of these names in the children and grandchildren seems to confirm the statement. On the other hand the reliable Bible records of both Shepherd and McClain are in agreement of the entry of "Jane Trousdale, wife of John Trousdale sr, born 22 Mch 1757, died 27 Feb 1832). This would suggest that Jane was a second wife or that her full given name might have been "Elizabeth Jane". Her age compares appropriately to that of John sr and it agrees with the Census. Elsewhere Moore believes this wife to be Elizabeth Stockard, eldest child of James Stockard and Ellen Trousdale, see #9, but with the variant that Ellen is a brother of Capt James Trousdale. It is difficult to harmonize this relationship inasmuch as such an Elizabeth must have been born decades ahead of the birth of Ellen Trousdale's other children. In conclusion the Kirkes explanation appears reasonable and it is probable that John sr's wife was "Elizabeth Jane Stockard" as stated.

WILLIAM TROUSDALE jr, s William & ____, b bet 1760 & 1770 (Census), d Lauderdale Co, Ala 1833 (Kirk); m Orange Co, NC (Marr Bond) 26 Dec 1801 - Caty McCauley, dau William McCauley. Parentage is positive, see Deed, below. The bondsmen for the marriage were William McCauley, her brother, and John Taylor earlier identified in Mary Trousdale's marriage in 1798. On 24 Aug 1803, William McCauley an extensive landowner deeded to William Trousdale "jr" "in consideration of love & affection" for the "sum of 5 shillings" 200 acres on New Hope Creek (Orange Co Deeds XI 80). The same year James Stockard, another presumed brother-in-law, sold him 24 3/4 acres on the Great Alamance (op cit XI 279). Previously on 2 Dec 1797 the State had granted William 125 acres adjoining Sharpe and McCulloch (agents for the Granville patent) (NC Land Grant 96-39). There is no record of the ultimate disposition of any of the foregoing tracts.

The family moved out of North Carolina before 1810 and lived for a while in Maury Co, Tenn where possibly all but the eldest child were born (Kirk). The family moved to Alabama before 1820 and in 1830 (the earliest enumeration) was living in Lauderdale Co. At this time the family consisted of males: one 60/70, one 15/20; females: one 40/50, one 15/20, one 5/10, and six slaves. Their son

John and his family were adjoining; William is not accounted for (Census).

From the Census Caty was born between 1780 and 1790, nearer the former because she married in 1801. In 1783 William McCauley executed a deed of gift to his daughter Caty McCauley (Off Reg Deeds Hillsboro, NC II 80), which year probably was that of his death. In Census 1790 a William McCauley, presumed "jr" and brother to Caty, lived in St Thomas District, Orange Co, NC: no vote (a minor), 4 slaves, 1532 acres.

ELLEN TROUSDALE, presumed dau William & ___; m - James Stockard (Stackhardt d Maury Co, Tenn 1818 (Comp Am Geneal VI 207, VII 787; Biog Hist NC Ashe V 323; Biog Hist NC Long). According to the earliest reference (Long), Ellen was the sister of Capt James. If the John Trousdale Will of 1779 be that of John, the elder, Ellen was not mentioned therein. Others claim Ellen to be the daughter of Capt James - this is now generally denied by all. There is no direct evidence as to Ellen's father or her year of birth. However, a realistic study of the years of birth of her children and, most particularly, the recorded acts of her husband, James Stockard, together with the migration of the family to Maury Co, Tenn, furnish circumstantial but definite clues. Estimating, Ellen was born about 1750, married about 1770. James Stockard was a first settler on the Haw River (Hist Alamance Co, NC Stockard). Long states that he was a Continental soldier in the Revolution. This is probably true, but the rolls being lost, can not be proven. He became an early landowner in Orange Co but the grant or deed is not recorded. In the Federal Census 1790 James is living in Hillsboro District, Orange Co but in the corresponding tax list (Col Rec NC XXVI 1292) he is placed in Caswell District, one white vote, 175 acres. This was the same locality in which William Trousdale sr and his sons lived and owned property. In 1797 he bought 150 acres on the west side of the Haw from John Trousdale for the nominal sum of £ 20; the same year he sold 113 acres to James Trousdale; and on 15 Dec 1803 sold William Trousdale jr 200 acres on New Hope Creek (Orange Co Deeds). According to tradition James Stockard and his family, except John below, moved to Maury Co, Tenn between 1795 and 1800. However, based on the last deed, the move probably took place in 1804, and it is believed that others of the children, than John, remained in North Carolina. In Tennessee, James bought of David Craig, jr 240 acres on Big Tom Bigby Creek in Maury Co on 2 Feb 1813 (Deeds). According to an unverifiable authority Ellen died in Maury Co in 1810. Children born Orange Co, NC (Moore):

i Elizabeth; m - John Trousdale. See #7.

ii William, b 1772, d Tenn 1837; m Orange Co, NC (Marr Bonds) 28 Jan 1797 - Leah Mann; b 1779, d Tenn 1841. William bought 150 acres near his father in Maury Co, Tenn in 1813.

John remained in Orange Co living on the south bank of Big Alamance near its junction with the Haw (Long). He was a colonel in War of 1812. By his 2d wi - Katherine, he had: James Gibbs who married in 1834 Mary Morrison Johnston. They were the parents of (Prof) Henry Jerome Stockard, 1868-1914, father of Mrs Tom (Leila S) Moore, an extensive collaborator in this manuscript. See Ashe V 383; Hist Alamance Co, NC Stockard 107.

NANCY TROUSDALE, dau William & ____, b Orange Co, NC c 1769/72, living 1852; m - John Freeland. Nancy identifies herself as daughter of William, the brother of Capt James, in her affidavit 24 Apr 1852 incorporated in the claim for retroactive pension for Elizabeth Dobbins Trousdale (Pension Claim W 4525). She stated inter alia that she was 83 or 84 years of age, that her father, William, lived within three miles from Capt James, her uncle; that she had several sisters but mentioned none by name. She signed with her mark. In Census 1850 she was born in 1772, a landowner and, apparently, a widow. The Freelands were first settlers along the Haw River (Hist Alamance Co, NC). In Census 1790 (tax list) John Freeland had one vote and no land. He was then in St Thomas District, Orange Co, NC. Children based on Census 1850 living in Orange Co, NC:

i Charles J, b NC 1790; m - Mary ____. Landowner, school teacher.
ii John J, b NC 1799; m - Mary ____. Farmer, landowner, justice of the peace. Notarized his mother's affidavit in 1852.
And others.

ALEXANDER TROUSDALE, s John jr & ____, b Lancaster (?) Co, Pa 23 Jun 1766 (Fam Rec; Tombstone), d White Co, Ill 7 Sep 1834, bur Village Ch, ae 68 yrs 2 mos 26 das (MPSmith); m 1st Orange Co, NC 3 1790 - Fannie Clendennin, dau John Clendennin, d Tenn c 1796 (Burch); m 2d - Edah Pearce, oldest dau Moses James & Jemina (Robinson) Pearce, b 16 Jul 1780 (Haarlem Reg 1903 281), d White Co, Ill 2 Aug 1821, bur with hus (Burch; Smith). Except for direct evidence as to Alexander's father, this family group and the descendants are exceptionally well documented. This Alexander is not to be confused with Alexander, son of Capt James, born 26 Jun 1765.

As a baby Alexander accompanied his parents from Pennsylvania to North Carolina (Fam Trad). He is stated to have served in the North Carolina militia during 1783 but this service can not be authenticated. He was not a landowner in Orange Co, NC nor is he listed in Census 1790. Shortly after marriage and certainly before 1796 he moved onto his father's 640 acre tract on Blooming Grove Creek in Montgomery Co, Tenn. (His brothers, William and John jr, followed him.) His home was near the Stewart Co line on the road to Clarksville. On 29 Sep 1797 Alexander Trousdale was commissioned lieutenant in the Montgomery Co militia (Rec Off Tenn Militia 1790/1811). In 1806 he was on jury duty. In 1807 he bought 150 acres of Henry Miner, located apparently in Stewart Co for he was taxed there the same year. He was again on jury duty in Montgomery Co in 1811. In April 1813 he sold the land that he bought from Miner "at the head of Fletcher Creek". This probably marks his departure from Tennessee for in 1815 mention is made of "the place where Alexander Trousdale formerly lived" (Montgomery & Stewart Co Ct Min).

Arriving in White Co, Ill Alexander was the first to take land in Indian Creek (twn) on 6 Jun 1815. He was commissioned Justice on 24 May 1817. His family are in the State enumeration of 1818 and the Census 1820. Alexander was a founder-member of the Cumberland Presby Ch organized September 1819, today known as the Village Church (M P Smith). All the family became members.

Fannie Clendennin was killed by the fall of a tree while riding through the woods during a storm. James, her baby, was in her arms at the time but was unharmed (Trad-Burch). (James lived to be 77 years old - see #34. Ed) Her father, John Clendennin, was a first settler on the Haw River (Hist Alamance Co, NC Stockard). He is said (Gladney) to have served in the Revolution, ensign to captain, being captured at Eutaw Springs 8 Sep 1781 (Roster NC Sold) but the Military record can not be connected to the family history. Children by 1st wi - Fannie:

WILLIAM TROUSDALE, s John jr & ___, b ante 1775; m - ___(unknown), d ante 1820. Nothing is known of the family of this William Trousdale. His parentage is definite, the Orange Co Court of November 1797 directing William to prepare the inventory of the estate of John Trousdale, dec'd and in the following February Court approving William as administrator. There is no mention in the Minutes as to details of the inventory or the other members of the family. William was a property owner in Caswell District, Orange Co as early as 1796 being taxed on 123 acres and one white poll, this increasing to 248 acres and three white polls in 1800. (Note: This reference may, however, apply to his uncle William. KT.) William definitely left North Carolina by 1810. By 1820 in Stewart Co, Tenn at its eastern boundary with Montgomery Co was a William Trousdale and his family. This is identified as being on Blooming Grove Creek, acquired by John Trousdale, jr, the father, in 1790. William's family consisted of males: one over 45, two 26/45, one under 10; females: one 16/26 (Census). This appears to be two families. William Trousdale is not mentioned in the early Court Minutes of either Stewart or Montgomery Cos although his brothers Alexander and John are frequently noted. In Census 1830 a William Trousdale is noted in the same area, but much younger, see below. No Trousdales are found in later Census. Children (poss)

i William jr, b bet 1790 & 1800; m - ____, b bet 1790 & 1800. Living in Stewart Co, Tenn in 1830 having minor males: one 10/15, one 5/10, one under 5; females: one 10/15, one under 5; slaves: none (Census).

JOHN TROUSDALE 3d, s John jr & ____, b Orange Co, NC ante 1775, living 1820; m - ____(unknown). Following his brother Alexander and possibly William, John 3d settled in Montgomery Co, Tenn on his father's Blooming Grove Creek grant. In 1804 a road was to be built from "John Trousdale's to Mason Bennett's ferry" over the Cumberland (Stewart Co Min). He definitely lived in Montgomery Co being on jury duty there in 1805 and a bondsman to the extent of $4000 (Montgomery Co Ct Min). He lived near Alexander Trousdale's home, being made overseer to build a road to Clarksville "past the home of Alexander Trousdale". John was commissioned justice of the peace 20 Apr 1813 at which time he "lived on Blooming Grove Creek". Tax assessor for several years, he was recommissioned justice in 1815 and was noted as "captain" of the district (op cit). John and James Trousdale were defendants in the Stewart Co Ct in 1818 (Ct Rec). In Census 1820 his family comprised males: one over 45, three 16/26, one 16/18; females: two over 45, one 26/45, one 16/26, two 10/16. Again, this appears to be more than one family. James, below, lived nearby. No Trousdales are found in subsequent Census. Children (presumed) included:

i James, b bef 1794; m - ____, b bet 1784 & 1804. They had one child under 10. He sold a negro woman in 1820. (Montgomery Co Rec).

NANCY TROUSDALE, dau John jr & ____; m - John Ray (Moore). Parentage in this instance is by elimination; Nancy Freeland being the daughter of William and Nancy, daughter of Capt James being a cripple and never marrying. During the Revolution, John Ray was a Tory, called "colonel". In Census 1790 (tax list) he was living in Hillsboro District, Orange Co, NC: one vote, 5 black polls, 379 acres. The family and the descendants remained in North Carolina. Children included (Moore):

i Martha Dunn; m - George Faucette, s Thomas & Deborah (Underwood) Faucette, b 1777, d 1827. He was a Presby minister. Children:

JOHN TROUSDALE, eldest s James & Elizabeth (Ferguson), b prob Lancaster Co, Pa 3 Oct 1762 (Allen), living 1818; prob m Lincoln Co, Ky (Ky Pion & Ct Rec 121) 7 May 1792 - Milly Allen. Related to this marriage is that of his sister Mary in January of the same year in Lincoln Co to Morgan Vardeman, and of his sister Elizabeth the following year, but in Madison Co, Ky to William Moore. How or why those three children of Capt James and his first wife left North Carolina several years before Capt James moved to Tennessee is unexplained. John, however, later rejoined his father in Sumner Co, Tenn being there deeded 100 acres by Roger Gibson, approved by "Jas Trousdale jr" in the February Court of 1799; also 165 acres by Tilman Dixon in 1800. These tracts were along the boundary of Capt James's original grant. In 1800 John was on jury duty (Sumner Co Ct Min). John is named in his father's will of 1818 but he is not found in Census 1820 of Tennessee. There is no record of issue.

Other family contributors state that this John married Elizabeth Stoddard (Stockard?) (Gladney) and others (Luce) show him to be the "John Trousdale sr" of Smith Co, Tenn, see #7. He is too young (Census) to be the latter and it is doubtful that he would be living in two separated counties at the same time.

ALEXANDER TROUSDALE, s James & Elizabeth (Ferguson), b Lancaster Co, Pa or Orange Co, NC 26 Jun 1765 (Allen), d Madison Co, Tenn or Davidson Co early in 1830; m Orange Co, NC c 1790 - Nancy Emily Allen, dau John & Janette (Coleman) Allen, b Orange Co, NC c 1768, d Columbia Co, Ark 1847, bur Mt Holly Presby Cem, Union Co, Ark (Gladney). There are conflicts in the data pertaining to this family. In 1933 Mrs Gladney did not have the Bible Records of William Bell Trousdale, a grandson.

Gladney states that Alexander served in the militia in 1783 but no such record exists. He was not a property owner in Orange Co, NC and therefore was not included in Census 1790. He left North Carolina shortly after 1794 settling at a "Crab Orchard" in Tennessee. Today that would be in Cumberland Co which was not formed until 1855. Probably he went to Henry Co, where William Wallace settled and later to Madison Co, where Allen established a home. In neither county did he serve in office or establish a record.

Nancy Allen's father was from Bedford Co, Va and, according to Gladney had militia service as pvt Capt John Johnston's Co 8 Sep to Dec 1780. Children (WBT & Gladney):

i James, b Orange Co, NC 16 Dec 1792. In Madison Co on Jury duty in 1826; authorized to build a mill at Waddell's Bluff on north fork Forked Deer River (now in Gibson Co) (Madison Co Ct Min). He may be the James Trousdale in Henry Co who lost a small law-suit in 1825 (Henry Co Ct Min) and who in 1827, only, was taxed on 250 acres (Henry Co Tax Lists). M 1810 - Sara Fawcett, d Maury Co, Tenn 1830. Last mentioned in 1843 (Henry Co Ct Min).

James jr accompanied his parents to Tennessee. Apparently he was justice of the peace for in 1799 he approved for the Court a deed of land sold to his brother John (Sumner Co Ct Min). About 1810 James and his family moved to Gallatin Co, Ill settling near Shawneetown. He commanded the militia company of that town in 1813 and was granted authority to operate a tavern in 1815 (Gallatin Co Rec). James lived in Wabash Bottom (1825) on the road from Equality to Carmi at Grenshaw's Mill (1833) (Early Settlers Bender 96 & 111). Children (Fam Bib James Trousdale 3d):

ROBERT TROUSDALE, s James & Elizabeth (Dobbins), b Orange Co, NC 12 Dec 1777 (Allen), living 1840 (Census); m 1st Sumner Co, Tenn (Marr Rec) 28 Jan 1804 - Sidney Wynham; m 2d Franklin (parish), La (?) 19 Dec 1819 - Abigail Robbins. Robert accompanied his parents to Sumner Co, Tenn and was active in local affairs as early as 1803 when his father deeded "to his son Robert" 120 acres (Sumner Co Ct Min 386). This tract was subsequently recovered by Capt James (op cit 484). Robert was, from time to time, on jury duty, a patroller and appeared to be doing considerable law work. Not being in Census 1820 of this area he probably had already left for Louisiana. In 1840 Robert was living in St Mary's Parish, La his family then comprising, males: one 40/50, two 15/20, two 10/15, one 5/10; females: one 50/60, one 40/50, one 5/10, one under 5, and five slaves (Census). WILLIAM TROUSDALE, s James & Elizabeth (Dobbins), b Orange Co, NC 23 Sep 1790 (Allen), d Gallatin, Tenn 27 Mch 1872 (op cit); m Sumner Co, Tenn 30 Jan 1827 - Mary Ann Bugg, dau Samuel & Frances (Lewis) Bugg, b Mechlenburg Co, Va 1 Feb 1807, d Sumner Co, Tenn 1 Jan 1887 (Allen). When six years old William Trousdale accompanied his father to what is now Sumner Co, Tenn. William grew up surrounded by the scenes of pioneer life. His early schooling was difficult. First tutored by John Hall, he was then a pupil in 1813 of Dr Gideon Blackburn. When call was made for volunteers for the Creek War, William at once left school and enlisted as a private in Capt Edward's company of mounted riflemen. He was elected third lieutenant and took part in the battles of Talledega and Talla-shatchee. In the War of 1812 he enlisted in 1814 in Capt Scurry's company, was present at the capture of Pensacola and was in the battle at New Orleans. William Trousdale then returned home and resumed his studies under Hall and completed his education in 1816. He then studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1820. He was elected to the State senate in 1835 and was appointed major general of militia in 1836. In the Seminole War of that year he became colonel

2d Regt Mtd Vol Tenn. Upon conclusion of hostilities he was offered appointment as brigadier general in the United States Army but declined saying "I value the compliment but decline the appointment as I desire no connection with the army except in times of war." In 1837 General Trousdale was the Democratic candidate for Congress but could not overcome the Whig lead in his district. In 1840 he was a Democratic elector. In 1847 President Polk appointed William Trousdale colonel 14th US Inf. He landed with his regiment at Vera Cruz on 13 Jun 1847 and took part in the battles of Conteras, Cherubusco, Molina del Rey and Chapultepec. In this battle he commanded the brigade, was twice severely wounded but refused to leave the field. On 23 Aug 1848 the President appointed him brigadier general by brevet for his gallantry at Chapultepec. After the war with Mexico General Trousdale returned to civil life. He was elected Governor of Tennessee for one term. Defeated for reelection in 1852 he was appointed Minister to Brazil in 1853 by President Pierce. Governor Trousdale remained in Brazil until 1857 when he returned to Gallatin and retired from public life. Writing of his father, J A Trousdale said "He would have attracted attention in any assembly of men, as well by his striking features as by his manly address. He was six feet tall, erect, sparely made, muscular, and well formed. A thick growth of black wavy hair covered a head of faultless shape. His eyes were gray and deep seated and his nose was straight and thin. His mouth, chin, and jaws were symetrically formed, adding much in their expressive shape to the idea of strong character which the facial features all clearly indicated. His face in repose wore an expression of deep earnestness tinged with sadness, but relieved of severity by an air of quiet satisfied composure. He was entirely free from affectation in either look, speech, or act. His bearing was civil, polite, and courtly". In 1825 he engaged in a lawsuit in Henry Co (Ct Min) but in 1826, with Susan, he was a property owner at Jackson in Madison Co (Ct Min). The same year he was fined $1.00 for retailing liquor. In 1828 he rented a house in Jackson and administered an estate there in 1834 (Madison Co Wills). In Census 1830 he owned six slaves. About 1851 he was living in Newburg where he initiated action to secure a retroactive pension in favor of his mother's estate. Bryson was appointed trustee of the Lewis Acad in 1856 but was shortly released because of removal from that area. Children, elder born Robertson Co, younger Madison Co, Tenn, by 1st wi - Susan:

Mary Ann McKee*

"Though not educated, the mother of Bashford was a woman of large natural abilities, of great physical strength, of unusual capacity for business, with great energy and practical sense, with strong convictions and a rare gift of leadership. All the references in the family correspondence portray the features of a woman of heroic mold, with a fine sense of personal honor, lover of her children, 'lover and giver of life'. Quiet and undemonstrative in manner though she was, nevertheless, the ruggedness of her convictions, the loftiness of her mind and the strength of her personality entered like iron into the souls of her children.

"The conditions which the early pioneers in western Wisconsin faced required souls of stern stuff. There were few comforts and many hardships. Indians were numerous and bears were quite neighborly. The wolf at the door was more than a figure of speech. One day Mary Ann McKee beat off with a shovel a prowling wolf about to enter the log cabin where her young child lay sleeping."

stock mark was a swallow fork in each ear with an under bit on the right. William was commissioned justice of the peace in 1812, assessor in Capt Shaw's company (district) in 1813 and in Capt Green's in 1813 and 1814. During these years he was busy in connection with settling various estates. He was again on jury duty in 1815. On 12 May 1817 William was licensed to practice law (Smith Co Ct Min). He died before either of his parents. His Will, signed 4 Feb 1819, is a "death bed" instrument. The plantation went to "wife Mary" in trust for his children: John, James, Betty (Elizabeth) Smith, Jinny (Jane) and (Mary) Ann, all minors. His father, John Trousdale sr, and his father-in-law, John Harvey, were administrators; his brother, John jr,being a witness (Smith Co Wills IV 238. From the originals by Mrs Will High in 1952. The WPA reproduction omits the name of James, above.) This will was recorded 5 Apr 1820. Mary's surname is deduced from the will and by the repetition of "Harvey" in the descendants. Mary (Polly) continued to farm the plantation at Caney Fork River until after 1850 when she turned over the operation to her son-in-law, John B Nichols, whose family had been living with Polly for some years (Census). The parentage of the first wife, Mary Trousdale, is based on an old record "Mary had a sister who married a Moore", see #6, and that both John and Mary were brought up together in Maury Co, Tenn.

John Trousdale spent his boyhood in Maury Co where he probably married and, with his parents, moved to Lauderdale Co, Ala about 1828/9. In 1830 he was living adjacent to his father, married and with a minor daughter (Census). He was commissioned justice of the peace in Lauderdale Co on 10 Apr 1832. With his brother William he administered their father's estate in 1833. Early in 1836 John and his family moved to Marshall Co, Miss settling near Holly Springs. Here he was again a justice of the peace, conducted a general store and, from 1836 to 1845, had a private school. He was a farmer and a landowner (Census). John was tax collector from 1852 to 1854 and clerk of the Probate Court in 1855. In 1858 he visited his son, John A, in Fayette Co, Tex, buying land there at the time. On 31 Oct 1859 he left Holly Springs for Texas (Kirk), settling near LaGrange, an extensive property owner and well-to-do farmer (Census). Children by 1st wi - Mary (Trousdale):

His name is frequently spelled "Johnson". In 1840 he was a farmer and slave owner living on the Tennessee River in Lauderdale Co, Ala remaining there through 1850. In 1860 he was in nearby Lawrence Co owning no land but very wealthy and living with his son, Felix and wife. He returned to Lauderdale Co before 1870 where he was a small landowner and very poor, presumably a result of the recent war (Census). In 1880 Johnston was living in Center Star in the family of Benjamin. His second wife, spelling uncertain, was a widow from Columbia, Tenn. His last wife, Mary, with her child, in 1880 was separated from Johnston and working on a farm outside of Center Star.

The Trousdale Place

THE ground upon which Gallatin was located originally belonged to James Trousdale, father of William Trousdale, famous "Warhorse of Sumner County," and afterwards Governor, and later United States Minister to Brazil. Likewise was James Trousdale grandfather of the late Hon. Julius A. Trousdale, Gov. Trousdale's son. The deed called for 41 (41.80) acres, and eighty one-hundredth, the fraction, the deed stated, was for a road. One acre was reserved for Mr. Trousdale himself, which left 40 acres for the town site. Upon this reserved acre on the south side of the public square James Trousdale built the first house in Gallatin. It was afterwards torn down and a part of the material used in the house still standing in the rear of the original site. How inspiring that to this day the good name of that pioneer carries on in Trousdale Place, the home of the Trousdales through the honors that have come to them through generations! The late Mrs. Annie Berry Trousdale, who died December 25, 1935, at her home in Nashville, had, after the death of her husband, in 1899 deeded Trousdale Place to Clark Chapter, U.D.C., the beautiful old mansion with its rich traditions to be a memorial to her husband, distinguished soldier and statesman, Julius Augustus Trousdale, of beloved and honored memory. Julius Trousdale was Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Tennessee, and came near defeating Bob Taylor in the race for Governor in the early 1890's. Trousdale Place now enshrines Trousdale Library, and is in use nearly 365 days a year as a community center where about twenty local clubs hold conferences, public assemblies, and every conceivable civic meeting fostering public enterprises. It is no ordinary "dead shrine" where visitors walk through the "dim religious light" of musty faded rooms in austere silence, but a living force in community life. On the walls of the stately old rooms is written in paintings, documents, and mementoes the glory and the heartbreak of the Confederacy.

Trousdale Place.

The monument is a statue of a Confederate soldier, similar to those in thousands of Southern towns.

E X A L T E D V A L O R *

Trousdale Place, a handsome old brick house shaded by handsome old trees a minie ball's throw from the public square in Gallatin, Tenn., is the ancestral home of the clan of Trousdale, a name prominent in Middle Tennessee since the state was born, and the spiritual home of the 70-odd members of Clark Chapter No. 13, one of the earlier chartered units of the National (later United) Daughters of the Confederacy, into whose loving care the house was delivered in 1900.

Clark Chapter makes a sentimental pilgrimage to Trousdale Place on the first Saturday in each month, for the regular U.D.C. meeting, and on the other Saturdays the house is open for the convenience of sight-seers, patrons of the chapter's small historical and current library, and those who merely wish to browse among the Confederate mementoes and memories with which the house is filled. Tourist and Sumner countian alike, however, are apt to understand the appraisal of a past president of Clark Chapter who murmured the other day, "I wish I could come here oftener. It's like stepping into another world."

It was another world in which Trousdale Place came into being, a world of leisurely and gracious living, of high ceilings and high ideals, a world in which the distinctive agrarian culture of the ante-bellum South was beginning to develop, and with it the pleasantly paced social order which made those times, in succeeding years, a favorite subject for personal and literary nostalgia. There was still much of the frontier in evidence in 1822, when Trousdale Place was built (although not by a Trousdale), but spreading halls of slave-made brick were beginning to replace chinked and daubed log cabins, and the rougher edges of the wilderness country had been polished.

The land on which Trousdale Place stands was part of the 640-acre grant which James Trousdale, captain in the Revolution who had been with Washington at Yorktown, received for his military services from the State of North Carolina. Although the grant was dated December 4, 1784, the doughty captain did not settle the land until 1796, the year in which Tennessee achieved statehood and a decade after Sumner county had been carved from Davidson. Five years later, when the state legislature authorized the purchase of land for the establishment of the Sumner county seat, the Trousdale farm was the site selected, and one of the lots in the new town of Gallatin was bought by John H. Bowen, an attorney, who built on it the brick house which was to become known later as Trousdale Place.

The house was not entirely completed when Bowen died in 1822, and it was purchased soon thereafter by William Trousdale, the son of Captain James who was destined to do the most toward engraving the name of Trousdale on the history of the state. William Trousdale served with Andrew Jackson at Pensacola and New Orleans, was made a brigadier general in the United States Army for gallantry while serving with the 14th Infantry during the Mexican war, was a member of the state senate in 1835 and elected governor of Tennessee in 1849, climaxing his career by serving as United States minister to Brazil for four years. He died at Trousdale Place in 1872.

His widow, who had been Miss Mary Bugg of Sumner County, continued to live in the house until her death in 1882, when possession of the estate passed to her son, Julius Augustus Trousdale, then a 42-year-old veteran of the Army of the Confederacy who had, two years previously, married Miss Annie Berry of Davidson county.

(*) From an article by Josephine Murphey, published in THE NASHVILLE TENNESSEAN MAGAZINE, July 11, 1948. Used by permission of the publisher.

Julius Trousdale had been born at Trousdale Place, had left it when he enlisted in Bate's Second Tennessee regiment and marched off on May 3, 1861, with 284 other members of the Sumner Legion, to do battle for the Cause. Wounded at Shiloh the next year and rendered unfit for active duty, he had served in the quartermaster's department until the war's end, and then come home to Trousdale Place again, to practice law in Gallatin, to represent his neighbors in the legislature as both representative and senator (he was speaker of the house in 1893), to make an unsuccessful race against Bob Taylor for governor, and to take an active part in the commemorative work of the Daniel S. Donelson bivouac, formed by the veterans of the Sumner Legion.

Four of the five children of Julius and Annie Berry Trousdale died in infancy and the fifth, Mary, was understandably dear to her father's heart. When she died of a fever in August, 1899, shortly after returning from a New York finishing school, it was a blow from which Julius Trousdale did not recover. He died the next month, leaving Trousdale Place to his wife.

Clark Chapter, chartered by the National Daughters of the Confederacy October 29, 1895, less than two weeks before the Atlanta convention at which the name was changed to United Daughters of the Confederacy (and named in honor of the four sons of a widowed Sumner county mother, Mrs. Emma Douglass Clark, three of whom gave their lives for the Confederacy), had been functioning for four years at the time of Julius Trousdale's death. Devoted, according to the chapter history, to making the organization "a fitting testimonial to the high regard in which the South held the Confederate soldier," the ladies had made some ambitious plans, which were spread upon the minutes of the meeting held in January, 1900:

"It was the unanimous desire of the chapter to secure a lot sufficiently large to have ornamental grounds, with a Chapter House large enough to seat all members of Donelson Bivouac, Sons of Confederate Veterans, and Daughters of the Confederacy - to have a place beautiful, where all relics, mementoes and memorials would be kept sacred, all to be made as ornate and attractive as artistic taste and means at our disposal would permit - to have a place on the grounds where a figure of a Confederate soldier may be placed."

Thus the Daughters dreamed, but nobody was more surprised than they when, on May 14, 1900, the widowed Mrs. Trousdale deeded Trousdale Place to a "Library and Historical Society and Monumental Association of Clark Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy" as a memorial to Julius Trousdale. Mrs. Trousdale prescribed that the association was to use the house and lot to commemorate "the history of Sumner countians and Sumner county in connection especially with the Confederate army and the War Between the States of 1861-65, and for the purposes of beautifying and adorning said grounds and premises and erecting monuments or memorials to the memory of Confederate soldiers from Sumner county, or to soldiers from said county in any other war or wars."...

The inscription on the base of the monument reads:

"There is no nobler spot of ground than where exalted valor lies."

Samuel Whitney Trousdale
1853-1909

"Dr. Samuel Whitney Trousdale* was conservative and progressive. While holding to the old doctrines, and always loyal to his Church, he took a broad and statesman-like view of the Kingdom of God; he was quick to see and seize strategic opportunities, and did not always think it necessary to follow the beaten path if a better way presented itself....Men trusted him because he was honest; they followed him because he was a leader; they loved him because he was a humble follower of Jesus; and those who knew him best loved him most."

*Excerpts from a biography as given in the NORTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE of 21 July 1909.

On 3 September 1909 Bishop James W Bashford, half brother of Samuel Whitney Trousdale, wrote a letter from China to his widow, and among other things said, "Take him all in all I think he was the most open-minded and candid and unselfish man I have ever known." (See # 90)

Southern Pacific's Last Train Robbery

FRIDAY THE 13TH was a mighty unlucky day for two hold-up men who attempted the last recorded robbery of a Southern Pacific passenger train in Texas and Louisiana.

It all happened on a cool, moonless night in March, 1912. Number 9, SP's daily transcontinental passenger train, had been delayed at Del Rio, and Engineer D. E. Grosh was making up time as they left the water tank at Dryden, headed west.

Express Messenger David A. Trousdale listened to the rumble of the drivers on No. 709 as the big locomotive gathered speed to make the ascending grade ahead. He closed the side door of the express car and sat down at his desk to finish some paper work by the light of a coal oil lamp. His helper, a man named Reagan, readied some packages to be unloaded at Sanderson, the next stop.

No one on board had seen two men slip out of the darkness and climb on the back of the locomotive tender at Dryden just as the train was getting underway. The surprise was complete, therefore, when both of them, wearing masks, covered Engineer Grosh and Fireman M. M. Holmes with six-shooters.

"Do as you're told and you won't get hurt," they said as they climbed down from the tender into the engine gangway.

The bandits ordered the two crew members to take the train past the station at Mofeta and down a long grade into a winding canyon.

"Stop the train so that all the passenger cars are on that trestle," one of the robbers snapped. "We want just the engine, the mail and the express car across on the ground."

Grosh eased the locomotive to a stop, and one of the bandits, later identified as Ben Kilpatrick, settled himself in the cab to cover the crew members. The other hold-up man, sometimes known as Frank Hobek, holstered his six-shooter and picked up a Winchester.

Meanwhile, Conductor Henry Erkel, realizing the train had stopped on a trestle, hurried forward to the door at the head end of the smoking car. Through the open door he could see Porter R. Robinson uncoupling the head end of the train from the passenger cars under the supervision of a masked man with a rifle. Bandit Hobek spotted the conductor and ordered him to help with the job.

When it was completed, the two SP men were forced to call Express Messenger Trousdale to the door of his car. He slid back the door to look into the muzzle of the Winchester. The robber told him to "fall out" with his hands up. He was searched for weapons and lined up with the two trainmen. All three were marched up to the combination mail and express car, where Helper Reagan and Mail Clerk M. E. Banks were added to the group covered by the bandit. The conductor and the porter were told to go back and stay with the coaches.

The above picture* was taken after the attempted robbery of a Southern Pacific train, and shows the two bandits in life-like pose. The hero of the hold-up was David A Trousdale.

The story herewith is the most exciting train robbery story in the history of American railroads.

"Poke your heads out of those cars and you'll get them blown off," they were told.

The express messenger, his helper and the mail clerk were ordered to get on the engine. With one bandit riding on each side of the gangway, the engine and two cars proceeded around a rock bluff to a point known as "Baxter's Curve", named after an engineer who had been killed at the location in a derailment years earlier.

When the train stopped, the three men were marched back to the baggage car, and Trousdale was forced at gun point to open the safe.

Describing the incident in a report to the superintendent of Wells Fargo & Company in San Antonio, Trousdale said:

"I only had seven money waybills in the safe and out of this seven I told him there were only two of any value to him. I got him to take the two packages, one valued at $2.00 and the other at $37.00. After he had looked over the car, he said he would go through and get what Uncle Sam had, and he carried the three of us back to the mail car. He cut one mail pouch open and put all the loose registers in it, and threw it out with four others filled with registers. Then he told me he would take me back to the coaches and see what the passengers had, and that he would take me across the river (meaning the Rio Grande) with him..."

Trousdale's heart must have chilled at those words. He was to be taken along to carry the loot; then when they were through with him he could expect a bullet in the back. Thinking quickly, he made a show of cooperating with the bandit.

"Have it your way," he said, "I'm not getting fighting wages."

Passing through the combination car, Trousdale's eye fell on an ice maul lying beside a sack of oysters. He managed to snatch up the heavy hammer and hide it behind his overcoat, without attracting the bandit's attention. Then he pointed to a package consigned to Sanderson.

"That one there is worth more than all you've gotten so far," he said.

Hobek leaned his rifle against his leg and bent over to pick up the package. Instantly Trousdale slammed the mallet down on his head.

"I knocked his brains out with the third blow," he reported to his superintendent.

He armed himself with the bandit's rifle and gave Hobek's two .45 Colt revolvers to the mail clerk and the helper, stationing them at the rear end of the car. He turned out the lights and waited nearly two hours for the second bandit to make an appearance. When nothing happened, he finally fired a shot through the roof of the car.

The other bandit came to the door of the car.

"Anything wrong, Frank?" he called. "Frank?"

As soon as Trousdale was able to see the second bandit's head silhouetted against the faint light in the doorway, he fired, killing the man instantly.

After waiting about an hour more to see if the pair had any accomplices, Trousdale and his helpers loaded the bodies, the guns and what might have been the loot aboard the baggage car. At their signal, the engineer backed the engine and two cars back to the rest of the train.

While the hold-up was in progress, Conductor Erkel had slipped out of the last car carrying a "telegraphone". He walked back to where Flagman F. Kendall was protecting the rear of the train, and together they hastened down the track to Mofeta. There they attached the primitive portable telephone to the telegraph wires, and after much shouting over the lines, managed to let the dispatcher in Del Rio know about the situation. He immediately notified Sanderson, and Sheriff Joe Bean of Terrell County started rounding up a posse.

The conductor and the flagman returned to the train in time to welcome Trousdale and his helpers with open arms, and to view the grisly cargo aboard the baggage car. The bandits' horses were found near the train, and six sticks of dynamite, together with an "infernal machine", were found on the bodies, but no accomplices ever turned up.

Number 9 puffed into Sanderson just as the sheriff and his posse were about to go to the rescue. Trousdale's actions were given official sanction by the Sanderson Grand Jury, and the train was allowed to go on its way.

Trousdale later received a gold medal from the grateful passengers aboard the train, a letter of commendation, a gold watch and a $100 reward from Wells Fargo & Co., and an additional reward of $500 from Southern Pacific, all in appreciation of his heroism in the face of danger.

So ended the last passenger train hold-up on our lines in Texas and Louisiana. Trousdale was transferred to another railroad to prevent any possible reprisal, as was the custom in such situations, and he lived to complete 46 years with Wells Fargo and its successor, the Railway Express Co. He retired in 1945 after a long and useful career and passed away quietly in Columbia, Tenn. in 1953.

Another version of the same exploit*

By the time Perry was safely put away, and Evans and Sontag had quit robbing trains, the profession of train robbery was on the downgrade. Well-made and extra heavy express cars doubtless had an effect in discouraging the practice. Train robberies dropped from 29 in 1900 to seven in 1905. Nor did they ever increase much again. There were, however, a few spectacular affairs after 1905, and two of the outstanding jobs occurred on the much robbed Southern Pacific. On March 13, 1912, two men made the fatal mistake of holding up the "Sunset Express" on the San Antonio-El Paso run at a water stop called Dryden, in Texas. David A. Trousdale was the Wells-Fargo messenger aboard. He inveigled one of the two bandits into stooping over to pick up from the floor what Trousdale told him was a valuable package. As he did so, Trousdale picked up a heavy mallet that was used for cracking ice and let go a blow so mighty it killed the thug then and there.

The other thug was outside the car, on the track. Picking up the dead man's rifle, Trousdale waited until he saw a good chance, then drilled the second thug neatly through the head. It was noble work, work more likely to give parasites pause than any amount of moral suasion and pious words. Two murderous parasites dead in two minutes. The train crew, glad to be helpful, tossed the second body into the express car with the other, and the "Sunset Express" went on, a little late but still intact, and with Messenger Trousdale cleaning up the mussed up car. One of the dead men proved to be Gil Fitzpatrick, said to have been the last of the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang, terrors in their day. The other was one Ed Welch.

Wells-Fargo presented a gold watch, suitably inscribed, to Messenger Trousdale; and passengers contributed to purchase a gold watch fob "with a diamond set in a Texas star" for the brave man. Twenty-three years afterward, thanks to the unremitting labor of the Rev. A. N. Eshman, minister of a church in Trousdale's old home town of Columbia, Tennessee, Congress considered the matter and awarded one thousand dollars to the messenger who had safeguarded registered mail valued at $66,000. In February of 1946, according to an interview with him in the "Erie Railroad Magazine", Trousdale, still hale and rugged, had just retired after 43 years on the rails, all spent in the service of Railway Express and predecessor concerns.

I could wish that some ballad maker of the hillbilly school, which has celebrated in song nearly all of the thugs and parasites of the South and Southwest, would be inspired by the cold courage displayed by Dave Trousdale to give us a dozen or so strophes entitled "The Brave Wells Fargo Man", dedicated to him who so deftly exterminated two roaches at Dryden, Texas, in 1912.

David Andrew Trousdale

His widow, Mrs David A Trousdale sr said of him on 8 June 1960, "By nature he was always calm and collected. He was a wonderful husband, father, and Christian." (See # 128) (Photo courtesy Mrs David A Trousdale sr)

A fellow doctor in Sarasota once said, "Ted was very quiet and unassuming but could astound you with his encyclopedic knowledge of every patient and friend he had ever met." He had an amazing memory for dates, names, places, and events. He was conscientious to a fault but he had a great sense of humor. His hobby was railroads, which dated back to 1908, when his uncle showed him through the Pennsylvania Railroad shops in Altoona, Pa. He was also interested in genealogy and became acquainted through correspondence with other Trousdales while Theodore M Trousdale jr was in the Navy. He left a rich heritage of friends. (See # 163)

Minnie Evangeline Taylor
Wife of Samuel W Trousdale

Mother Trousdale was a great story teller and a great teacher. In her early life she had been a teacher of deaf children. To teach a deaf child is no ordinary task; in addition to teaching him to read lips it is necessary to teach him to talk, for no deaf child can talk without special instruction.

She told me of many amusing experiences she had because she could read lips. In church she often watched the choir whispering about her hat, her clothes, and her husband's sermon.

As I said, Mother was a great story teller, and one story she told me went like this:

"I had charge of a school for deaf-mutes in LaCrosse, Wisconsin in 1896. One day I answered a rap on my door and there stood a man who introduced himself as Alexander Graham Bell. I was nearly speechless, but not quite, and invited him in. He said he wanted to observe my method of teaching deaf children to talk. After school let out he hired a carriage and we went for a ride. I was 28 then and he was 49. He told me that his wife was deaf, and while trying to build an electrical device so she could hear he accidentally invented the telephone." This discovery was one of the great serendipities of all time.

Mother, like most of us, had heard old wives' tales about birthmarks and feared that because she taught deaf children her children might be deaf. When her first son was a few days old she decided to perform an experiment. The child was sleeping in his crib across her room. Finishing her dinner, she dropped her tray on the floor with a crash. The nurse came running in to find broken dishes on the floor, the baby crying, and Mother lying back on her pillow with a satisfied smile on her face. Her baby could hear!

Mother was left a widow with three small boys in 1909. This was a challenge to her, and she resolved to do her utmost to bring them up well. She had a will of iron, but it was so covered over with gentleness that you did not realize it until you had known her for some time. She defended her boys when they were young, helped them to become independent at an early age, and taught them to live honestly. When they were grown she stood apart, loving them, but never tried to manage their lives.

Here is another story she told me that illustrates her method of teaching her children:

"One day when the boys were small I had to go to a meeting at the Church. I told them that I would be back at five o'clock and would then tell them a story. The meeting was over at 4:30 and the women started to make tea and get out some cakes. I told them I couldn't remain for tea as I had an appointment with my children at five o'clock. One woman said, 'Oh, do stay for tea. An appointment like that isn't important.' I said to her, 'Well, I never break a promise to my children.' When I got home at five minutes of five, the boys were watching out the window for me. They did not act surprised that I was home on time."

The family of four was drawn closely together, and when a problem arose Mother called a family council, and the meeting did not adjourn until a solution, satisfactory to all, was reached.

When I became engaged to my husband, she held out her arms and welcomed me into the family. She never left me in the dark about any serious business that affected any member.

Mother was a great manager. She was never physically strong, but her mind was always at work, figuring out how she could best benefit her family. She had a driving ambition, directed toward the welfare of her boys.

She was a widow for 39 years. I knew her for 33 years. She has been gone now for nine years and the more I think about her the more I realize what a great woman she was. My respect for her continues to grow.

Summary of the background pertaining to John Truesdel, 1740-1806, who migrated from County Down in northern Ireland to South Carolina in 1772.

Earliest Identified Generation: - (1) -

_____ Truesdel, first name and parentage - unknown. Born near Drogheda shortly before 1700, his family moving that year to County Down. This family is probably the progenitor of the several other families of that name (various spellings) that subsequently have been found in the County. This unnamed son eventually became a tenant farmer in the townland of Kinghill just east of Rathfriland. His issue as reconstructed from early letters included:

i Martin. Had issue. Deceased ante 1792.
(-(2)-) ii John, d 1795; m - ____. See below.
iii Samuel, living 1802. Had issue.
iv Robert, living 1802. Twice married.

- (2) -

John Truesdel, s of above, b County Down ante 1720, d Kinghill 12 Dec 1795; m - ____(Unknown). First of name to be born in County Down. Tenant farmer. His cottage is still standing and, remodeled, occupied. Children born Kinghill:

i James, d ante 1792.
(-(3)-) ii John jr. 1740-1806; m - Molly Hollingsworth. The immigrant to South Carolina; see below.
iii Thomas, d ante 1792.
(-(4)-) iv Samuel, ____-1842; m - Eleanor Majore. See below.

- (3) -

John Truesdel, s John above, b Kinghill 1740, d Kershaw Co, SC 20 Mch 1806; m County Down - Molly Hollingsworth, b Annabinchago (near Kinghill) 1732, d Flat Rock, SC 15 Mch 1815. He sailed with his family on the Freemason in 1772 to Charleston, SC, took up a land grant in Kershaw Co, served in the Revolution, became a well-to-do pioneer farmer. Children except the youngest born Kinghill:

i Robert. Did not accompany his father, lost at sea.
ii Sarah; m - Samuel Jones. Had issue, settled in Alabama.
iii John jr, 1769-1854; m 1797 - Nancy McDonald. Large family, remained in Kershaw Co, descendants living there today.
iv James; m - Rebecca ____. Settled in Lancaster Co, NC.
v Hollingsworth, 1772-1850; m - ____. Small family, moved to Alabama; descendants now living in Texas.

- (4) -

Samuel Truesdall, s John the elder, b Kinghill 1750/60, d ibid 3 Mch 1842; m - Eleanor Majore, d 1842. He remained at Kinghill with his father and succeeded him as a tenant on the farm. He had a large family; many of his descendants are living today, on the farm and in the vicinity of Rathfriland. One son, James Truesdale, 1781-1871, migrated with his family in 1823 and settled at Rochester, NY. It was this James Truesdale who reduced to writing the family tradition of the Cromwellian soldier and the move of a descendant in 1700 to County Down. Before leaving Ireland he also had met another Truesdale from Drogheda and established relationship, name and degree not stated.

(Note: The remainder of the manuscript develops in detail the families of the descendants in the United States and, in a limited degree, those near Rathfriland. KT)

Summary of information pertaining to John Truesdale of Cumberland Co, Pa.

John Truesdale, poss b County Down, northern Ireland, d nr Cannonsburg, Pa 1791; m in Ireland - ___ (unknown). He migrated to America accompanied by his grown-up family in 1771. He settled in Cumberland Co, Pa where he became a landowner before 1774, a freeman in 1778 and a taxpayer in Tyrone (twn) throughout the years. He closed out his holdings, 322 acres on Sharman's Creek, in 1791 and moved to western Pennsylvania settling near the present site of Cannonsburg and died there the same year. His sons, adults, living with him in Cumberland Co, married there and left for the west with him. All of these sons, John jr, William, and Hugh, had extended military service in the Pennsylvania militia during the Revolutionary War. John's children born in Ireland:

i Mary, 1744-1828; m - James Adair.
ii John jr, 1745-1819; m - Hannah Robinson.
iii William; m 1789 - Elizabeth McClure.
iv Hugh, ___ - 1814; m 1777 - Mary Lytle.
v Thomas (?)
and others

All of the above children had large families, moved into Ohio and were pioneers in developing the west. This family has the same characteristics as the other two northern Ireland migrants: Anglo-Saxon, staunch Protestants, middle-class yeomen and tradesmen. It has no written records prior to arrival in America, only tradition and that only recorded about the middle of the past century by a grandson of the immigrant, Dr. Jackson Truesdale.
